Please respond by Friday, July 31! Reopening Task Force Survey

Dear Church Family,

The Reopening Task Force has been meeting to grapple with all the issues surrounding our desire to offer in-person worship to those who want it. Although we have what we think is a pretty robust virtual presence now, there is definitely a longing for the benefits of communal worship that is tempered by very real health concerns. So what shall we do and how shall we do it?

We would like to hear from you on this topic, understanding this is a deeply personal topic for each of us. We have learned that our virtual reach on Sunday is much broader than we are used to, with people signing in to watch from literally across the continent. We anticipate a blended worship experience going forward at some point in the future, both in person and virtual, to take advantage of this opportunity and to continue to provide a worship experience for those who are staying home. We also recognize that the situation continues to be fluid, and that a resurgence of the Coronavirus or changes to local regulations may make our planning moot. Still, we have to start somewhere.

Please respond to the online survey that you can access by this link: <https://surveymonkey.com/r/3WGJSLT>.

If you would prefer to fill out a paper survey please email Pat at phaight@fbcbeverly.org. We would appreciate your response by July 31st. The survey is a short 10 questions, and you should be able to complete it in one sitting.

The Reopening Task Force really wants to hear from you! Please consider taking a few moments now to complete the survey while you are thinking of it.

Sincerely,
The Reopening Task Force

Reports from Dismantling Racism Workshop

In late June – early July FBC co-sponsored with Essex County Community Organization (ECCO) a three part online series entitled ‘Dismantling Racism: An online workshop for white people’. The purpose was to create space for white people to understand the concept of white privilege and systemic racism which is baked into our political, judicial and societal systems. The killing of George Floyd awakened many white people to racism both overt and subtle, which is often the reality for our sisters and brothers of color. ECCO an interfaith organization created the virtual curriculum for this study (at the request of FBC’s Social Concerns Committee, chaired by Leslie Brennan). A cap of 100 people was set but due to demand we expanded to 125 (15 from FBC participated). Over the next few weeks, we’re hearing from several of the participants from FBC who reflect on one thing they learned and one commitment to work to dismantle racism. If you have any questions or want to get involved to help dismantle racism, email Leslie Brennan lesliebrennan@comcast.net. In this issue, we hear from Bob Stoneham and Barbara Brann Weir.

Reflection by Bob Stoneham:

Participating in the Dismantling Racism workshop opened my eyes to many aspects of history that I don't remember learning in school, or even hearing about before. Like the story of John Punch <https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/aia/part1/1p262.html>, it made me realize that I have a lot to learn and it's on me to do the learning. To help bring that history to light and keep it available for the future, I am committed to financially supporting efforts that do just that, like the <https://savingplaces.org/african-american-cultural-heritage>. Thank you to FBC and ECCO for making this learning opportunity available to us!

Reflection by Barbara Brann Weir:

My need for these workshops was much greater than I knew when I signed up to participate. I did have some knowledge of systemic racism in our country beforehand, but that awareness helped keep me oblivious to the extent of my ignorance.

For example, I had not considered that the Thirteenth Amendment to the Constitution, which abolished slavery, also specifically continued to allow “involuntary servitude” as a punishment for persons convicted of a crime. So, after the Civil War, African Americans were imprisoned, often for minor offenses, and then leased out as convict laborers. Their work profited others, just as their labor during slavery had done. This is but one of many significant ways in which racial minorities have remained disadvantaged, while white supremacy has continued to be the norm.

What is my role in this? While I may not have contributed, in a conscious way, to creating and maintaining racist policies and practices in my country, the ECCO series challenged me to develop skills to respond actively in an anti-racist manner. First, I am trying to learn more. That is quite easy to do these days, as books about racial realities in the U.S. are readily available. I need to speak up for racial justice, even if it's uncomfortable sometimes to do so. Also, I'm committed to communicating with my representatives in support of legislation that promotes equal justice and opportunity.

FBC Beverly's New Compassion Fund

First Baptist Church in Beverly has established a $25,000 fund to provide emergency financial assistance to those in our church community who may be especially affected by the coronavirus pandemic, and resulting shutdowns, lay-offs and the like. We are calling this our Compassion Fund. Below are its keys elements:

- Potential recipients include not just church members, but all those (and their immediate families) who have a connection to our church, whether by attending church worship services, by participating in church sponsored programs of any kind, or as employees or volunteers at the church or its outreach ministries. Recipients do not need to live in Beverly.
- Awards are expected to be $500 or less per family or individual, but awards up to $1,000 may be made in exceptional circumstances. All will be in the form of grants, not loans.

If you or someone you know needs financial assistance due to the pandemic:

To apply, please go the following link and complete the form: <https://form.jotform.com/200727212739958> or call 978-927-1561

- If you have a financial need arising out of the pandemic and wish to be considered for assistance, please complete and send in the application form as indicated above.
- If you know of someone in our broader church family who has such a need and might not otherwise be aware of our Compassion Fund, please encourage them to apply.
- All applications and information relating to this program will be kept strictly confidential except as necessary to review and process the awards, and in order to issue checks and payments by the church.
